Georgetown Wins Game; Catholic U. Beats G. W. U.

Gallaudet Is Defeated by Hilltoppers by 29 to 18 Count. Brooklanders Swamp Hatchetites in Hardfought Contest, 38 to 16.

Callander's basket-ball quint met de- (Catholic University had a rather feat last night in the Ryan symnasium when the Georgetown five emerged from the fray with the long end of a While defeated by a large score, the Gallaudet boys displayed enough stuff to warrant them winning any game, but the team work of the winners in the final period was what told the tale. Just such team work that the Hilltoppers displayed in their meeting with the George Washington team gained them the verdict. Jim Tormey was again the one that swung things Blue and Gray way It was his long accurate shots for the basket that kept the Hilltoppers in the lead. With him Shugne shared honors, the youngster playing a great offensive and defensive game.

Gallaudet was in the lead by one point at the end of the nirst period, and for a while it looked as though they would pull through with a victory, but the Blue and Gray lads came strong in the linal chapter and outplayed the Kendall Greeners in every department of the contest.

Rockwell and A. Wenger played steat games for the Buff and Blue team and, it was due to their work that Gallaudet was to most every play and his shots for the basket bordered on the spectacular. Line-up and summary.

Charlie Brickley to Coach Johns Hopkins Eleven

Baltimore, Feb. 10 .- Charles E. Brickley, of Harvard, may coach Johns Hopkins football team next season. While this information does not come from an official source, it can be authoritatively stated that negotiations with the famous Harvard star have been in progress with every chance favorable to a successful conclusion being reached. Should Brickley he secured to take charge of Hopkins' football material, the Baltimore University would no doubt be placed in the front rank of Enstern collegiate teams on the gridiron

New York, Feb. 10 -"Did they do any thing or was it a National League meet-ing?" asked one of the scribes who ar-rived late at the Waldorf this afternoon. Scribe Mercer replied that it was just plain National League meetins. And that's all it was. After two days of fiddling the National League magnates finally adopted the 1915 schedule, thanked Barney Dreyfuss for the good work he did in laying it out and then caught trains homeward bound. The most important subject before the meeting was Ed. Barrows plea to have the Jersey City International Lesgue franchise transferred to the Bronx. It was learned that Magnate Hempstead of the Giants fought this and finally the matter was tabled for the present. In fact about everything was tabled. It looks as though the magnates will await the decision of Judge Landis before they decide definitely on any

The International chief still maintains hopes that he can influence the Giants' owner to change his mind. Charley Elblets, squire of Flatbush, talked more freely than any of the other magnates about the Bronx invasion. "It's a peculiar situation until ludge Landis has rendered a decision in Judge Landis has rendered a decision in the baseball suit," was his opinion. The others said nothing. The waiver rule was so changed that hereafter no club announcing a waiver on a player can withdraw it, nor can a club applying for a player under a waiver withdraw the offer. That portion to claim $29 for training expenses over the draft price was also eliminated. This rule was passed by a vote of 6 to 2. New York and Pittsburgh voted against it.
